PAULHAN BREAKS HEIGHT RECORDS.

Could Not Take Speed Honor from Curtiss, However.

Frenchman May Try Flight to Pasadena or San Diego.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 13.—By ... owing to the attitude assumed by the judges at nearly 5,000 feet, Louis Paulhan, the wiry Frenchman, broke all official records for height in a Parisian biplane yesterday, the third day of the aviation meet here. Paulhan's performance was greeted with a tremendous outburst of enthusiasm throughout the great aviation field. The flight lasted 50 minutes, 49½ seconds, and the descent was made in 7 minutes and 20 seconds—in itself a creditable achievement.

As methods of measurement were not accurate, the exact height reached is not known, but it is certain that he exceeded the record of 4,600 feet. The instrument on Paulhan's machine registered the greatest height at 4,600 feet. The judges' record, which is still being compiled officially, was 1,524 meters, approximately 5,000 feet.

Exhilarated by his many successful ... breaking all high-flight records, Paulhan may try an early flight to San Diego, which is more than 100 miles southward in an air line from the Dominguez aviation field. After rumors from the northern city had persisted Paulhan with the good nature that ... his success ... that extended his ... present invitation, and said: "Do not your conventions last?" Paulhan replied: "No, unless our engine's conveniences." When he was asked before it came to an end that he would attempt such a flight, he answered: "It is not impossible. In endurance tests other aviators have traveled more than 100 miles through space between cities that far apart."

Then he recalled the fact that Curtiss machines have fuel capacities for flights of ten hours' duration at 30 miles an hour, and had remarked that as his Parisian biplanes are much larger, with correspondingly large motors and tanks, he saw no reason why he should not make such a flight.

This, however, is Pasadena day at the Aviation camp, and that may suggest to the Frenchman a flight to Pasadena instead.

Paulhan made his definite record yesterday shortly after he had lost the speed record for the course to Glenn H. Curtiss. The Frenchman used an engine which had just arrived from Paris and had been on the course all the afternoon. He had circled the course again and again, skidding and dipping and swinging corners in a daring fashion which made his wife shiver with fright.

The sun was low in the sky and the shadows had begun to gather when Paulhan decided to go higher in the air than any man or heavier-than-air machine had ever flown. The wind barely stirred.

As Paulhat rose in the air he bent low his gray-capped head and smiled as he made a short circle over the 50,000 spectators. Curtiss had previously tried the higher currents and come down.

Paulhan pointed north, went up 1,000 feet, passed over the centre of the field again, as though to take another last look at a human face, then turned north and up again. The crowd grew breathlessly intent as the Frenchman and his air machine rapidly became a speck in the gathering twilight.

At a height of 1,300 feet Paulhan described a great arch to feel the currents. By this time he was a mile and a half from home. When word spread that he had beaten Hubert Latham's record of 1,890 feet the throng became frantic.

At 2,000 ft. he was still ascending. After he was as nearly out of sight as he could be without disappearing, he began to descend, much to the relief of the spectators. He came gently in front of the grand stand after having risen to the base of the mountain peaks. As he leaped from his machine, cheeks glowing and eyes flashing, he was grabbed by the friends and carried to the grand stand, where he bared his head amidst a shower of cheers.

The exact height Paulhan reached in his nervous flight is yet in doubt, as the judges are still working out the figures of the triangulation, but it is certain that he has surpassed Latham's Mourmelon record by at least 500 feet. The first figure the judges announced was 4,164 ft., but before final calculations are completed it may be found that the altitude reached was 500 or 600 feet less than a mile. In any event, the Frenchman has reached the height of the snow-capped mountains which surround the aviation field—and that is what he said he would do the day he arrived.

Cortlandt F. Bishop of New York, president of the Aero Club of America, was one of the most enthusiastic witnesses of the flight. It was a magnificent achievement, and one of the most important in the annals of the world, he said.

Paulhan gave the crowd another great surprise in the afternoon. Bullock, New York aviator, had ascended from Huntington Park, came drifting toward Aviation camp. As it was Mme. Paulhan among other guests. When the Frenchman caught sight of the balloon he sprang to his Farman machine, clapped out instructions to his helpers and in a flash darted off.

Rising in a wide circle to a height of 600 feet, he raced for a mile or two over the adjacent fields and approached close enough to the New York to hail his wife. Then he sped back to earth, paying his respects to Bleriot and Kindersley, whose machines he passed in ascending.

At 2 o'clock Curtiss announced that he would try for the speed record of the course. After a short trial flight he increased his speed to the rate of 43½ miles an hour. The time for the course of slightly more than one and a half miles was 2:24 3-5.

No sooner had he alighted and struck away than Paulhan's manager announced that the Frenchman would seek to take the speed honor from the American. Paulhan started, but his engine had less power. His turns were not so sharp. The result of the second lap, which was the one timed, was 11 seconds slower than Curtiss's record. The Frenchman kept on circling the course six times, but he did not equal Curtiss's record, though he covered more than eight miles in the flight.

Pleased by his victory, Curtiss went

FEDERAL CONTROL OF CORPORATIONS.

Congress Will Insist on Amending Taft Bill.

Tremendous Influence Will Be Needed for New Law.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Now that the main features of the bill to be recommended by the President providing for a federal incorporation act have become known, there is a disposition on the part of many members of Congress to insist not only on a full discussion of the measure, but on amendments which will, in their judgment, be necessary to make it effective in dealing with great corporations—indeed, it is believed that nothing short of tremendous administration influence will enact it into law. The need of a forfeiture clause, by which a corporation persistently violating law may have its charter revoked is declared to be absolutely necessary if corporations are to be effectively controlled.

Many Congressional lawyers advocate compulsory instead of voluntary federal incorporation. They declare that if Congress has constitutional power to grant voluntary charters to corporations doing an interstate business it has power to require corporations doing such business to take a federal incorporation just as it has power to require them to comply with its law regulating interstate commerce.

Among the questions which will probably provoke considerable discussion is that relating to the effect of federal incorporation on the right of states to control and tax the property of such enterprises. Before voting for the measure a number of members of Congress will wish to have the rights of states clearly defined in respect to such matters as regulations for sanitation and factory inspection. They will also wish to reserve to the states, beyond any question their right to tax such property after the corporation has assumed its federal charter. Some of them will wish, if possible, to separate the state from the interstate business, so that the states may still have power of control in respect to business conducted by the corporation solely within the state.

In 21 speeches Attorney General Wickersham has embodied the views of President Taft and his cabinet regarding a system of federal incorporation of business enterprises, and the bill is expected to be laid before Congress next week. The principal feature of the bill will be the creation of a form of holding company under a national charter which may control the business of subordinate companies organized under state laws. Proper safeguards will be provided against the combination of any such corporations in the business of discounting bills, receiving deposits and issuing notes.

There will be no compulsory provisions in the bill, it is said. The corporations will not be required to take out a national charter if they see fit to do business under the state laws instead. All charters will be subject to the approval of the commissioner of corporations. The minimum amount of capital stock will be limited to $100,000, nor less than $10,000 of which shall be available to commence business. In case a national corporation shall desire to acquire the property of state corporations, it will be required that it shall hold not less than a majority of the capital stocks of such corporations.

Corporations will be authorized to create two or more kinds of stock, the preference and designations of which are to be clearly stated in the articles of association; but at no time shall the preferred stock exceed two-thirds of the capital stock paid for in cash or property. Stock books are to be open to inspection of all stockholders, judgment creditors and law officers.

An important provision will be one requiring every subscriber to pay to the treasurer of a corporation 10 per cent of the amount of his subscription in cash, and directors will be authorized to assess such not exceeding the whole par value thereof; or if the stock is not of par value, then on the amount agreed to be paid for it. Failure to pay these assessments will subject the stock to sale at public auction.

A corporation will be permitted to purchase property necessary for its business and issue stock for the same with the approval of the bureau of corporations. Ample provision will be made for examiners' reports to the government by every national corporation; special reports to the government may be called for at any time, and super penalty provisions will be included to insure the proper working of the act, for these are in the nature of fines to be imposed on the offender. There will be provision for the forfeiture of the charter, it is said.

MUST AND WILL WIN FIGHT.

Mrs. Morse Confident, and Bankers' House Is "To Rent, Furnished."

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—"To rent, furnished." Is the sign which appears today on the front of former Banker Charles W. Morse's house on Fifth avenue. The fact that the mansion is not to be stripped of its costly furnishings and sold, as had been expected, seems to indicate that the family of the man now in the federal prison at Atlanta for banking frauds is confident that his release from confinement is probably a question of months—not of years.

Mrs. Morse, as she opened her desk today in the business office down town which she has established, reiterated her confidence that her fight for her husband's freedom would be speedily crowned with success. "It cannot be otherwise," was Mrs. Morse's declaration. "I must and will win my fight for him."

STORROW GIVES UP RECOUNT.

Papers Will be Filed, However, as Measure of Precaution.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—There will be no recount of the vote for mayor of Boston, asked for by the defeated candidate, James J. Storrow, if the official returns show the same or a similar plurality for John F. Fitzgerald shown by the returns, according to a statement issued tonight by Mr. Storrow.

In the face of the city returns last night, following the election on Mr. Storrow now declared he would ask for a recount, as the figures showed but 800 plurality for the winner. Tonight Mr. Storrow said he would not ask for a recount if Mr. Fitzgerald's total of some 1415 is maintained.

Recount papers have been taken out as a precaution, however, and are being circulated. It is necessary to get 50 signers in each of the 25 wards, and the papers must be filed by 4 o'clock Friday night.

The councilmanic election will also go uncontested, as after a count of the defeated candidates have taken out recount petition papers, James P. Hurley, Thomas J. Collins, Benjamin F. Lane and Mark Stone. Timothy J. Buckley, who was the fifth and last man elected on the list, will also ask a recount to correct himself in case any of the next three show a material gain.

GRAVES SUCCEEDS PINCHOT.

Director of Yale Forestry School Appointed by the President.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—President Taft appointed Henry S. Graves, director of the Yale Forest School, today as forester of the United States, succeeding Gifford Pinchot. He also appointed Albert F. Potter as associate forester. The new forester and the associate are both known as Pinchot men, both have served under Mr. Pinchot, and both are in sympathy with his conservative policy.

It was largely through Mr. Pinchot's efforts that the Yale Forest School was established and Mr. Graves went from the post of assistant chief of the division of forestry, under Mr. Pinchot, to become director of the school in 1900. He had served in the forestry division two years.

Mr. Graves graduated from Yale in 1892. He was trained in forestry in this country and in Europe and has had extensive experience in the West, having made the preliminary surveys for the Black Hills in 1897. He will take up his duties on or about February 1.

Mr. Potter, the new associate forester, also succeeds Overton W. Price, who has left the service. Mr. Potter is a native of California and has been a member of the forestry staff nine years ago. He has had jurisdiction over all the grazing privileges within the forest reserves. He is well acquainted with Western conditions and is thoroughly informed on all the policies and practices of the forest service.

A SETTLEMENT EXPECTED.

Eastern Railroad Officials Will Meet Trainmen Representatives.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Announcement of the differences over the wage question between the Eastern railroads and their employes is promised in today's announcement that the railroad officials have agreed to meet representatives of their trainmen the latter part of next week to discuss the demands. The conference, it is stated, will not be a general one, but will be divided into groups, each road conferring individually with its respective employes. It is considered possible that a compromise settlement will be reached, as the managers believe that most, if not all, of the demands will be granted. In any event a serious rift over the wage question between the Eastern roads and their men is declared to well-informed circles to be a remote contingency.

FOR ROCK ISLAND FIASCO.

S. B. Chapin and Partner Suspended by Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Samuel B. Chapin, head of the New York and Chicago firm of S. B. Chapin & Co., was suspended from the privileges of the New York Stock Exchange today for 60 days, for participation in the Rock Island deals of December 2, last, when Chapin charged manipulators sent the common shares of the Rock Island Company from 50 to 81, and back again in a period of 12 minutes. F. D. Countiss, also of Mr. Chapin's partners, and the only other active member of the firm was suspended at the same time for 30 days.

Notwithstanding all the denials and rumors concerning the Rock Island deals involving the name of Daniel G. Reid, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Rock Island Company, it will be said, Chapin & Co. received orders buying orders for account of the Stock Exchange governing the conduct of its members. The suspensions of the members are not regarded as charges, but were found guilty of certain facts detrimental to the welfare of the Exchange, for which the suspension of the Exchange privileges for the year.

Contrary to the rule of the Exchange other members of the firm are not to be punished, though it is said that the investigation of the Chapin affair brought out facts supposed to have involved other firms. The decisions of the governing committee were unanimous, it is said, and the facts in the case were considered by the committee the entire two weeks it was in session, before the penalties were announced to the general public.

As Wall Street has already discounted the action, because S. B. Chapin & Co. acted for Mr. Reid on the occasion of the purchase of Rock Island stock, while a board of governors did not furthermore, have any bonded "material evidence" against the firm, threatened to create a panic.

The firm of S. B. Chapin & Co. was organized the latter part of 1907. Its main offices are in Chicago, but its connections have always been among the most powerful and profitable and it has succeeded to much of the business of Harris, Gates & Co. which firm was dissolved several years ago.

HARMON ASKS INVESTIGATION.

Ohio Governor Sends Legislature Message on Prices of Food Stuffs.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 12.—Governor Harmon sent to the Legislature today when it convened a unique message concerning the high prices of foodstuffs and the advisability of a legislative investigation thereof. He suggested that laws enacted by Congress must be responsible in a measure for the trouble and asks on the stand as to what those laws are. The message says:

"I feel that this subject is one which should be promptly and thoroughly inquired into. If it be found that there are laws which put the people at the power of men who thrive by taking advantage of their necessities, it is time there is a host of proper laws to prevent such iniquities, or that existing laws to that end are not duly enforced in either case the means of relief are in your power."

"If the fault lies partly in the laws of Congress, your judgment as to their effect on the people of Ohio will have great weight."

MORE LUCRATIVE OCCUPATIONS.

Immigration Commission's Report Speaks of Native-Born Children.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The tendency of native-born children of immigrants to take up more lucrative occupations than were followed by their parents after they arrived in the United States is shown by a report of the immigration commission submitted to Congress today. The statistics in this report were taken from original and unpublished data in possession of the bureau of the census. In each of the 17 foreign-speaking classes shown in the report the proportionate number employed in agricultural pursuits, professional service and in trade and transportation is much larger in the second than in the first generation, while the proportion employed in domestic and personal service and manufacturing and mechanical pursuits is correspondingly smaller. There was a decided increase in the proportion of persons employed in commercial trade in the second generation of each nationality.

EXPOSER WEAKENS.

White Slave Writer Admits He Has No Specific Facts About Evil.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—George Kibbe Turner, the writer, whose sensational white slave article was a feature in a magazine recently and which was widely quoted of in the last municipal campaign, was the witness today before the grand jury headed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., which is investigating the alleged traffic in girls, that cost the writer $1,000.

Unfortunately, it is said, Mr. Turner's testimony proved of no assistance to the jury. His information, it seems, was purely general. He knew of no specific cases, and could only say that he had acted upon advices which he believed to be reliable.

BIG UNEMPLOYMENT FUND.

British Officials Pledge System of State Insurance.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Announcement of the support of public expenses of more than 2,000,000 working men and women in case of unemployment were made by the government tonight in a speech appealing for votes in the Lords which precedes the budget. The scheme, which provides for state insurance against unemployment, was outlined by Winston Spencer Churchill, president of the Board of Trade, in an address in Glasgow.

Mr. Churchill announced that the details of the scheme had already been worked out by the Board of Trade and that it is possible granted the power the Houses of Commons would pass a compulsory unemployment insurance bill which would deal with the subject of upward of 2,000,000 workers, skilled and unskilled alike. The unskilled workers, according to the scheme, would first be given consideration. Wherever by agreement with the trades unions it would be possible to substitute insurance added to the state.

The plan would be carried out in connection with the labor exchanges, which it is proposed to extend throughout the kingdom. Mr. Churchill said, would give labor a definite market and the advantages would include civilization had contributed to the workers. The Churchill plan would increase and standardize labor, and would be to the employer and artisan equally.

Under the scheme as outlined by Mr. Churchill, all trades in the United Kingdom would be subject to the provisions of the act, with the exception of those in which the government is able to show that existing schemes are equivalent to the provisions of the act.

The feature of the campaign is the great attention devoted in the newspapers of Great Britain to the increased cost of living in Great Britain, Germany and the United States. Columns of figures and statistics appear daily for the purpose of supporting or denying as the case may be, the cry of high prices.

GERMANY AGREES.

It is also opposed to Great Britain's suggestion that the powers should be represented by consuls at Mukden, Antung and Harbin. ANNUAL REPORTS.

Submitted by the Inspector of Plumbing, Inspector of Milk and Inspector of Nuisances.

The annual reports of the inspector of plumbing, inspector of milk and inspector of nuisances, submitted to the Representative Council, are as follows:

Inspector of Plumbing.

In the past year the work of this office shows a decided change for the better, inasmuch as there have been a great many more plans filed and consequently more inspections.

The increase in the number of plans of plumbing work is no doubt caused by the condemnation of privy vaults by the Board of Health, which of course would make a great deal of work, but I think the public in general are inclined to be more particular in regard to the sanitary condition of houses and tenements. The first question a prospective tenant asks now is: "Are the sanitary conditions of your house all right?" which goes to show that we must have our sinks, water closets, bath tubs and all plumbing work properly trapped.

There are still a number of houses and tenements which are in an unsanitary condition, and I would recommend a house-to-house inspection of the whole city.

I have been called on during the past year to make a number of smoke and peppermint tests and have made a great many inspections outside the plans filed for plumbing work.

Summary of work—Plans filed for new houses 40, for old houses 256, total 296.

Inspections made 460, water closets 163, bath tubs 141, wash basins 118, sinks 146, sets of wash trays 36, drinking fountains 10, hoppers 16, smoke tests 30, peppermint tests 14, estimated cost of plans filed $66,-849.

H. L. Ouain, Inspector of Plumbing.

Inspector of Milk.

The inspector of milk reports that during the year 1909 the law regarding the sale of milk was published, as the law requires. It was necessary to bring suit against seven dealers, three creamers and four shopkeepers, who after being notified in regard to having neglected to do so. In each case they were fined and then made application for a license, which was granted.

Two hundred and sixty-five licenses were issued, 108 to dairymen and 157 to storers; 8 of the dairymen were for cream and 8 for skimmed milk only. Two hundred and forty-three samples were tested, 4 of which were brought to the office. No samples were taken from any stores or restaurants. One sample brought to the office proved to be nothing but skimmed milk, no fat being found; the party bringing it refused to give the name of the party from whom it was bought. The milk as usual has been of good quality. The daily average number of quarts is: New milk 5,000, skimmed milk 251. The following tables give the result of 342 samples tested, besides the one for skimmed milk. The tables show the following:

Temperature—11 at 65, degrees, 14 at 65, 50 at 61, 45 at 62, 71 at 63 at 58, 8 at 56 and 2 at 55.

Specific gravity—5 at 10.34, 18 at 10.3, 200 at 10.32, 1 at 10.31 and 17 at 10.30.

Milk fats—7 at 5.2, 3 at 5.0, 25 at 4.9, 37 at 4.6, 18 at 4.4, 7 at 4.3, 35 at 4.2, 47 at 4.0, 4 at 3.9, 21 at 3.8, 4 at 3.7, 17 at 3.6, 5 at 3.5, 9 at 3.4, 7 at 3.3, 3 at 3.0, 1 at 2.9, 1 at 2.8 and 1 at 2.6.

George L. Shaw, Inspector.

Inspector of Nuisances.

The annual report of George C. Sisson, inspector of nuisances shows that he made 7,176 first and subsequent inspections of premises in pursuit of his duties, and these he enumerates on a classified list filling more than three large type-written pages. He also left copies of the state law in regard to privy vaults, etc., at 165 places. A list of the number of places in each street which had privy or other vaults at that time is included in the report.

MUST PROVIDE WAITING ROOMS.

Introduced in the Senate in Regard to Shelter for Patrons of Street Railway Companies.

An act to require street railway companies to provide suitable waiting rooms for the patrons has been introduced in the senate by Senator Mc-Kenzie of Cumberland. At his request it was referred to the committee on railways.

The act requires that any person or company operating a street railway in any city or town shall, upon the request of the mayor and board of aldermen of the city or town council, establish designated points suitable waiting rooms for travelers. These rooms shall be in every respect to the requirements of the municipal authorities. If the company thinks the order of the authorities unjust, it may appeal to the railroad commissioner, who after both parties and their make decision, which shall be final.

If the company neglects to comply with the requirements within a specified time, it is liable to a fine for each week that the neglect continues. The act to take effect immediately upon its passage.

WHAT OF MR. SHEFFIELD.

[Providence Journal.]

When he was a candidate for Representative from this district in 1908 Mr. Sheffield promised that he would support Cannon if on investigation it proved that it was true that the speaker had unfairly used his power to thwart the will of the majority and to kill the consideration of measures they desired to pass. Now that a number of New England Republicans, including Congressmen Gardner, Ames and Lovering of Massachusetts, are showing more of the Speaker's course, which we expect that Mr. Sheffield having had time to complete his investigations, will arrive at a decision as to these? A manifestation of at least occasional independence on Cannon and Dalzell would add to Sheffield's reputation and would greatly strengthen his chances of success in a district that he carried by 81 votes in a Presidential

PORTSMOUTH.

(Correspondence of The News.)

William L. Sisson, who died yesterday on his farm on Ferry Neck had lived nearly 80 years. He celebrated his golden wedding with his second wife, December 5, 1910. He leaves his wife, who was Miss Sarah Wilcox Brown, four children, second daughter of Lorenzo Jalleck Vars, Mrs. Anna and Mrs. George W. Sherman of Newport and Mrs. Almorah of Fall River. His brother, Sisson, died a number of ago.

Benjamin C. Sherman and Mrs. A. S. Boyd and daughter were Wednesday of Mrs. Alice Manchester.

Reported that a grocery store will soon be opened in the Mrs. Town Eric in Portsmouth, and that the premises have already been leased.

In the report of the Saturday evening's amusements at the guild house it was not intended to mean that prizes had been offered for a contest, as might be implied. There were simply a few funny stunts about the floor, for which a box of candy was presented, in the spirit of a joke.

Mrs. Gideon W. Almy entertained Wednesday Mrs. William H. Butler, Mrs. George W. Hart and Miss Edna C. Almy.

Mrs. Belle Tallman has returned from a week's visit to her daughter, Miss Dorothea Tallman, in Keene, N. H., where she reports as steadily improving in health.

THE GAME SITUATION.

Birds Which Were Abundant in New England in Its Early Settlement Now Extinct.

[Edward Howe Forbush, Agent National Association of Audubon Societies.]

(Second Paper.)

Among the birds which were abundant in New England in the first years of its settlement were vast numbers of swans which frequented the fresh water ponds and rivers. The great auk and countless water fowl sported in the waters along our coast. Whooping cranes and brown cranes were numerous, and great flocks of geese, both white and snow geese, and Canada geese covered the waters and often alighted in pastures and grain fields. Many of these birds were destroyed or driven away during the seventeenth century, and most of the others have been decreasing in numbers ever since. The eastern pinnated grouse or heath hen, now nearly extinct, was so numerous on the "ancient heathy site of Boston," according to Nuttall, that servants stipulated with their masters not to have it on the table more than a few times a week. So plentiful were these birds that the farmers considered them a nuisance, pursuing them as they did crows at all seasons of the year. The ruffed grouse was so abundant that some towns offered bounties on the bird, because it destroyed the buds of the fruit trees.

A glance at the condition of our game today and a comparison with the situation during the first years of settlement will be instructive. The great auk, the Labrador duck and the wild pigeon are believed now to be extinct. Ornithologists believe that the Eskimo curlew which once passed through Labrador and along our coasts in flights approaching in numbers those of the wild pigeon is now near extinction. The wild turkey and the crane have long been extirpated. Swans and snow geese are only rare stragglers. The Canada goose is no longer believed to breed in New England, and is now seldom seen in large numbers, except on the coast.

Brant, which once swarmed in countless thousands in Boston Harbor and along the coasts of New England, wherever they could find food, are now seldom seen there except in flight. They now stop in large numbers only at such remote points as Monomoy, Nantucket and Muskeget. The fresh water ducks have almost disappeared from the greater part of our inland waters, and even sea fowl, which once were seen in flocks miles in extent, have been greatly reduced from their former abundance and are now found in near numbers, mainly on the outermost shoals. Most of the larger shore birds (godwits, curlews, willets, oyster catchers, etc.) once common on the coasts, are now mere stragglers.

Recent investigations among many of the older gunners of Massachusetts show that the majority believe that the upland game birds have decreased from 50 to 75 per cent within the past 60 years. It is evident to all that the upland plover is nearing extinction, not only in New England, but as far west as Minnesota and Texas. All the larger game animals are in danger of extermination, except where they are stringently protected as deer now are in the New England states.

Time was when the pinnated grouse and the wild goose sold for 10 cents each or less in the markets and 25 cents would buy a good plump wild turkey. Wild pigeons were given away and used to fatten hogs. These birds are no longer in our markets. Recently some skins of the eastern pinnated grouse were sold for $100 each; the skin of a New England wild turkey could not be procured at any price. Twenty-five dollars is now offered for a wild pigeon with no result. Ruffed grouse are illegally sold in some markets at from three to six dollars a pair. The Boston Markets are poorly supplied with game birds from Manchuria, the British Isles, West Indies and other foreign countries.

PERSONALS.

....The widow of Lieutenant Joseph Petrosino of the New York detective bureau, who was assassinated in Palermo, Sicily, will receive in all $3,000 a year from the city of New York as pension money, if a resolution passed by the board of aldermen is ratified by the mayor. The board voted her $2,000 a year, to be added to the $1,-000 which she receives annually from the police pension fund.

....Mrs. Charles W. Morse has opened an office in the New York financial district, where she will conduct a double campaign, first to procure the pardon of her husband, serving a 15-year sentence in the federal prison at Atlanta, and second, to rebuild, as far as possible, the shattered fortune. The office is a modest, two-room affair, furnished with articles taken from the Morse home.

....The case of Lucretia Carpenter, a negress of Oyster Bay, Long Island, who is slowly turning white, is puzzling physicians. Save for some dark splotches on her face she looks like a Caucasian and her hands and arms are as white as those of a white woman. Her hair has become straight and the woman says she expects, if she lives five years longer, to lose all the marks of the Ethiopian. The change in her color began about 10 years ago.

....One of the best papers on "How Can Clean and Wholesome Milk be Purchased at Least Cost for the New York Market?" in the prize contest conducted by Dr. Thomas Darlington of the New York health board, was contributed by Ray Spoonenbergh of Middletown, N. Y., and the second prize, a $200 full-bred Jersey cow, was awarded him. It has been learned that Spoonenbergh is a patient at the Middletown State Hospital for the Insane and has been an inmate of that institution for several years. He entered the contest for his own amusement.

....Miss Charlotte Augusta Van Den Heuvel, said to have been the last lineal descendant of Robert Morris, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, is dead at the old Van Den Heuvel residence in New York. She was 86 years old and is said to have been related to the late Mr. John Jacob Astor. Miss Van Den Heuvel's father was the late Dr. Charles Anthony Van Den Heuvel, who died in Connecticut in 1833. Her mother was Mrs. Mary Morris Van Den Heuvel, whose death occurred in 1885. Since the death of her mother Miss Van Den Heuvel had lived alone, except for her servants, in the family home. Miss Van Den Heuvel was a great granddaughter of Robert Morris. Her mother was a daughter of Mr. Thomas Morris, a son of the signer of the Declaration of Independence. She was one of four children, all of whom are now dead.

A Costume of Bronze Broadcloth.

Brown is once more at the head of the fashionable color list, being much worn in dressy costumes. The shade in vogue is not yet reached popularity for readymade garments. This suit is of broadcloth and has a bodice motif in self-color on coat and skirt. Collar and cuffs of old gold velvet brighten the coat, and the hat a graceful model in the surrender style, is of bronze velvet with a fan cockade and sweeping plume in a lighter shade of brown.

OUR FOREIGN PULPITS.

[Note: Again does New York call for an English clergyman. This time it is the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church.]

[W. J. Lampton, in New York Tribune.]

Wow!
What's the matter with home preachers?
Is New York so wicked tough
That to save it from its sinning
We've no Yankees strong enough?
Must this town import its talent
In the pulpit line or go
Unregenerate and unshriven
To the regions down below?
Do we have a class of sinners
So obsessed that they must call
An Englishman to save them,
Or they won't be saved at all?
Is the Puritanic spirit,
That came over long ago,
Commercialized and hardened
Till its action is too slow?
Has the higher criticism
Put its hack into our style
Till we look upon a Yankee
As a true Satanic wile?

RECEIVES LABOR PROTEST.

Congressman Sheffield to Present Bricklayers' and Masons' Grievance to Secretary Meyer.

Congressman Sheffield has been sent a written protest from the Bricklayers' and Masons' International Union against the practice at the Naval Training Station of having masons, fourth-class, and laborers do masons' work instead of such men as are listed by the labor board as masons, first class, according to the regulations of the Navy Department governing such work. Mr. Sheffield will present the protest to the Secretary of the Navy.

Mrs. Sarah E. Freeman, 21 Warner Street, Newport, R. I., says: "My nephew was more or less troubled by backache for some time. Often it kept him awake at night, and in the morning he arose feeling stiff and lame. In addition to backache, other difficulties existed which left no doubt that his kidneys were affected, and wholly responsible for his suffering. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, he procured a box at Wright & Hay's Drug Store and their use brought results that proved them to be a remedy of great merit."

THE BIENNIAL AMENDMENT.

The proposed amendment to the constitution of Rhode Island for biennial elections, as introduced in the House of Representatives, provides that the governor and other state officers and members of the General Assembly shall be elected biennially, commencing in 1912, and shall hold office for two years. If approved by this legislature it will go to the legislature in 1911, and then be submitted to the voters in November, becoming effective in the following year. The amendment does not provide for biennial sessions of the legislature and would not affect the election of other state officials now chosen annually. It is a step in the right direction, but it might also provide for biennial legislative session. Rhode Island is to come thoroughly into line with other states.

THE NEW MARRIAGE LAW.

It is not strange that those who last winter advocated the passage by the legislature of a law which should prevent elopements to this state for the purpose of securing marriage licenses without hindrance or delay are expressing pleasure with the results of the working of the new law adopted in response to the request for better legislation on the subject. For some years Rhode Island had been acquiring an increasingly unsavory reputation as a Gretna Green of the most pronounced type and the better class of citizens had become restive under the conditions which were reflecting discredit upon the state. All this has been changed by a single stroke, for under the new law a marriage license issued to a woman from outside the state does not become operative for five days. That of course is prohibitive for the purpose of elopers, who desire to be married as speedily as possible after they obtain possession of a permit for the performance of the ceremony.

It so happened, too, that the first case under the new law was a typical one, the couple coming to Providence to be married quickly and secretly and being unaware of the new rule now in force, which effectually puts a stop to speedy marriages of out-of-town couples. The disconcerted pair departed without ceremony when they learned that they could not be wedded at once, and later made a trip to New Hampshire, where the law was found more accommodating. The point of interest in this case for Rhode Islanders is not that the couple were married somewhere else but that they could not be married here under the present legislation, and so this state escaped the stigma of permitting a runaway marriage of the most extreme type.

The case was a fortunate one also as an illustration of the way in which the new law works in that the story of the frustrated attempt to secure an immediate marriage permit here was published in the home city of the girl, and so the knowledge of the new legislation and how it works has gained publicity and undoubtedly will have a good effect in preventing attempts at elopement to this state. That Rhode Island will no longer be open to the pointing of the finger of contempt for the looseness of her marriage laws is a matter of satisfaction, not only to those who were from first to last concerned in the passage of the new law or the agitation which preceded it and made it possible, but to all who dislike to have the fair name of the state smirched and its fame connected with those things which do not add to its credit but make it a byword among commonwealths. The new law has justified itself at the very beginning of its existence and enforcement.

DROPPING THE INSURGENTS.

One would suppose from the alacrity with which the Congressional "whips" have eliminated the names of the insurgents from their lists of Republican Congressmen that the party was too large. A continuance of the present policy of the Congressional leaders, in which the President appears to participate, will remedy this difficulty entirely. When the resolution for a committee to investigate the Ballinger matter was acted upon there were not quite so many Republicans as the party leaders would have liked, and as continuance of the present split will ensure a small enough number of members in the next House to relieve the leaders of any difficulty which a redundance of members may have caused them.

Only a few days ago it was announced, apparently by the authority of the President, that appointments desired by the insurgents would be held back until their votes had been secured for the administration policies. Instead of reducing the insurgents to subjection, the immediate effect of this was to lead 25 of them to vote with the Democrats against allowing the Speaker to appoint the members of the investigating committee. If the insurgents shall be formally read out of the party, as is proposed, the party will be in a minority in the House, and we doubt if the leaders will enjoy that result. About the worst way of carrying a point is to threaten a man. If he has any light in him that will evoke it and the President's eyes ought to be opened by what happened to the Speaker.

What is all this quarrel in the party about, any way? Who has been opposing the President? The insurgents are not satisfied with the new tariff law, but there has been no indication that they could do anything about it. In all matters of regulating corporations the insurgents are in much nearer accord with the President than the regulars. They have not been antagonizing him; why does he desire to antagonize them and threaten them with a loss of patronage? Cannon held back his committee appointments in order to coerce Republicans into voting for the tariff bill, and the insurgents are a good deal more belligerent than they were before. The President seems to need a little rational political advice.

LEAVING THE GIRL ALONE.

Why grooms and coachmen should have particular fascination for heiresses is a thing no other men can find out, but with the substitution of the automobile for the coach the chauffeur is taking the place of the coachman as the charmer of opulent young women. A recent affair which has been very much in some of the papers indicates that a hired waiter will do very well when there is neither a chauffeur nor a coachman around. The girl in this case was thrown much in the man's company just because he was a waiter when she was at a susceptible age, and also under conditions which made her susceptible. She needed some one to confide in, and the waiter was at hand and there was no one else.

This girl, whom no one can fail to pity, lost her mother recently. She saw her father seldom. Her grandfather took her to a big hotel. Probably he did not see much of her, as he had his own cronies and occupations. He was fond of her, but seems never to have asked himself whether he was interesting to her and never thought of taking the precaution of having some one with her who was harmless but could interest her. Probably an older woman than she would have been the best companion, but a girl of her own age might have answered the purpose. Her grandfather provided neither; probably he would say that he never thought of it. She could have any sort of merchandise or amusement money could buy, but no companionship was provided for her.

She was homesome and mourned for her mother. She longed for somebody who would be companionable and sympathetic. The grandfather could think of nothing except to send her to a girls' boarding school, where she would not know a soul, and the prospect filled her with dread. There was the waiter in her private dining room—about all the companionship she had. So she talked to him and he sympathized with her—naturally—and presently they ran away. If her father or her grandfather had had sense enough to provide her with proper companionship it probably would not have happened.

The House committee has voted unanimously to make river and harbor appropriations in the future one of the regular budgets. There has been a great demand for a river and harbor bill of generous proportions at this session of Congress, and it had been thought by the committee that it would carry at least $75,000,000. As a result of the committee's latest action, the amount will be cut to about $50,000,000. This will hardly satisfy the demands of the country, but will be certain under the economy plan of the administration.

Congressman Poindexter, from the state of Washington and one of the House insurgents, has openly declared that he is for Roosevelt and hopes to see him again President of the United States. There has been a good deal of "talk from Elba" talk in Washington during the past few months, but this is probably the first formal declaration by a Republican Congressman advocating Roosevelt as Taft's successor.

A Massachusetts legislator proposes more drastic laws against fast automobiles. He has prepared a bill to penalize the owner or possessor of an automobile geared to more than 30 miles an hour, or 1 minute, the penalty $500. As long as some of the Automobilists do not restrain their ambitions, or whatever else they are, to go fast there must be laws to restrain them.

President Brown of the New York Central says wages must go up in about the same proportion that the purchasing power of the money which the laborer earns goes down. Why not make a greater effort to keep the prices of necessities down?

Fortunately or unfortunately, the greater part of the stock of valentines from the Worcester manufactory had been shipped to market before the fire which ruined the entire plant. The children can have their valentines, as usual.

Boston chose young men for officials Tuesday. The average age of the eleven who were elected mayor, members of the council and school committee is 39 years, only four being above 40. The oldest is 55 years and the youngest 27.

The American people appreciate the benefits of the mails. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1909, the total revenues of the Postoffice Department was $202,562,353, an increase of $12,083,729 or 6.31 per cent over the preceding year.

Now shoes are reported to be going up in price. If the increase of the cost of living continues, we may all be on our uppers.

Brockton is also talking of adopting government by commission.

Airships and aeroplanes are also going higher.

THE BOSTON CITY COUNCIL'S OPPORTUNITY.

[Boston Transcript.]

Rarely have a small group of men been afforded so extraordinary an opportunity to serve their city as that which has fallen to the seven or eight candidates of the Citizens' Municipal League who have been elected to the new city council. The nature of the victory of the council slate is augmented by taking into account the time element. The three men who stand highest, with three years each before them, have a nine years' equivalent. The next three have a six years' equivalent. It thus appears that, on the basis of 18 Kilsweat hours of public service, the Citizens' Municipal League have secured 15 and perhaps 16 of the 18 units, as against two or three for the Curley combination. The candidates with the Good Government endorsement possess, by the same test, 13 of these eighteen units. More practically stated, as the Fitzgerald administration opens, the councilors whom the Good Government Association recommended will have a clear majority, to say nothing of such aid as they are likely to get from Brand and McDonald, selected by the Municipal League. For the next two years Mr. Fitzgerald should be held in check by a responsible city Council. It is to be hoped that its members approach their duties with a full realization of this extraordinary opportunity.

While the mayor has more power over appropriations and loans under the new charter than with the old, it is of a negative character, intended by the charter makers to save an honest mayor against an unfriendly city council, which might try to hold him up. He has less affirmative power generally than before. The new checks against misuse of authority should prove highly serviceable. These come in the civil service commission and the new finance commission. With the former the mayor-elect evidently intends by his announcement this morning to precipitate a conflict. He says that unless a new charter he will have to select an altogether different type of subordinates from those whom he saddled on the city before, and since he has been sadly bereft in the recent campaign of decent supporters, it may not always be easy for him to pick out from his own henchmen persons of the technical qualifications upon which the civil service commission will have to insist. The new finance commission, while it will watch his contracts carefully, has no absolute power. Its strength lies in its appeal to public sentiment; but with the newspapers of the city friendly to good government, and with his tenure resting on so narrow a margin, he is not likely to defy the recommendations of that body. To sustain them, absolutely and vigorously, should be the program of the new council.

A NEW TYPE OF SAILOR.

How the character of seamen has entirely changed in the last 10 or 15 years is pointed out in a statement by Secretary Meyer to the House committee on naval affairs. "What the old navy wanted," said Mr. Meyer, "was a sailor—a man who had been before the mast, a man who could run up the mast with readiness, unfurl the sails, and be an all-around-man. What the navy wants today is not that class of man who is set in his ideas, but we want young men who can be trained to manage the mechanical features of a modern battleship. An inland man is often better than a man from near the sea, because he comes with no preconceived ideas and learns what he is taught. He should have the faculty for acquiring knowledge of electricity, mechanical and machinery work, because our great battleships today are nothing more or less than great big moving machine shops."

ROYALTY AFRAID OF A SNEEZE.

[Marquise de Fontenoy.]

Among the idiosyncrasies of Leopold was his hatred and fear of colds in the head, which in view of the phenomenal size and length of his nose was not to be wondered at. In fact, he would resort to any extremity to avoid coming into contact with a person with a cold, while a sneeze filled him with alarm. His ministers and entourage learned in course of time to take advantage of this, for whenever during an audience the king gave way to bursts of anger, or even began to give signs of displeasure, they would at once force up a sneeze, which would so frighten the sovereign that he would bring the interview to an abrupt close, hastily dismissing the sneezer from his presence.

A monarch who entertained a similar dread of sneezing was Emperor Paul of Russia, not because he was afraid of catching cold but because he regarded a sneeze as unlucky. It is from his reign that dates the extraordinary custom in vogue among the regiments of the Imperial Guard at St. Petersburg, according to which, when drawn up on parade, they are compelled to blow their noses by command, just before the arrival of the czar to pass them in review, the idea being to avoid their sneezing in his presence.

GROW PEARS ON APPLE TREES.

[The Field.]

We are asked if fruit experts have ever tried the apple as a stock on which to graft the pear, and if so with what results. Although members of the same genus (Pyrus), they belong to quite distinct species and they have not been known to hybridize. The stocks used generally for pears are either the quince or the seedling pear of certain of the wild type.

Fruit tree nurserymen do not appear to have ever tried grafting the pear on the apple, although some of them declare that it would never answer. We are, however, assured by an amateur that he not only successfully worked a pear on an apple, but that he has now a large tree which was obtained in this way, and that the effect of the stock is shown in the late ripening of the pear fruit and in a distinct change in its flavor.

Democratic State Central Committee Re-Elects Officers.

Dedication of a New Providence Church—Gifts to the School of Design Museum.

Frank E. Fitzsimmons of Lincoln was unanimously re-elected chairman of the Democratic state central committee at the annual meeting Wednesday afternoon in Providence. Peter J. Gaskin of Cumberland was re-elected secretary, William R. Congdon, who has served the committee for several years as treasurer, was once more the unanimous choice for that office. He declined, however, because of pressure of business, and Representative George F. O'Shaunnessy of Providence was named in his stead. A large delegation of members was present; in fact, it was one of the best attended meetings held in several years. During the election Edmund Walker of South Kingstown, one of the oldest members on the committee, occupied the chair. The 1909 rules were adopted. Under the rules the chairman will later appoint an executive committee of 12 men, who will direct the affairs of the organization for 1910. The three officers will also serve on this committee. After the election the general party policy was discussed.

The new Advent Christian Church on Dexter street, Providence, overlooking the Training Ground, was dedicated Wednesday evening in the presence of a gathering which crowded the auditorium. The exercises were part of a two days' series of special services held to mark the completion of the structure. Prominent leaders of the denomination from all over New England, as well as from the local Adventist conference, are in attendance. The dedicatory exercises were conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. W. Hewitt, who gave an outline of the history of the new movement. Rev. Henry Stone of Wallingford, Conn., conducted that part of the program given to receiving gifts and pledges, and Rev. A. C. Johnson preached on "Lessons from Ancient Dedications." Rev. G. E. Tyler delivered the dedicatory act. Walter D. Howard presented a report setting forth the details of the cost of the new church as follows: Cost of lot, $5,500; cost of building, $21,122.42; total cost, $26,622.42; paid out, $12,807.31; cash on hand, $883.06; pledges still unpaid, $1,306; net debt, $11,852.81. The pastor announced that pledges of fully $12,000 had been received during the day, reducing the net debt to about $10,000.

Many important gifts to the museum of Rhode Island School of Design from the estate of Miss Hope Brown Russell were reported to the directors of the institution at their quarterly meeting Wednesday. Among the paintings of special value to a Rhode Island collection is an excellent portrait by John Smibert, and one by Edward Greene Malbone. Three of the miniatures for which Malbone was celebrated were also bequeathed to the museum, as well as a fine collection of engravings by Paolo Toschi. The rare collections of china and of old Norwegian silver brought together by Mrs. Russell's mother, Mrs. Anna A. Ives, have also been given to the School of Design, as well as a remarkably carved Swiss cabinet of the seventeenth century. The museum committee reported also a notable acquisition to the collection of paintings in the purchase of a large landscape by George Inness from the Jesse Metcalf fund. Other gifts reported were of 11 jewels, flower studies, pencil drawing, of animals by F. W. Zuercher and an old Italian brocaded vestment; drawings by Sir Edward Burne Jones, drawings, jewelry and metal work. The director, Roger Elliot, reported a gain in registration at the school, the numbers now being: In the day classes, 140; night classes, 424; Saturday classes, 165; total, 729. The library committee made special reference in its report to a bequest from Mrs. Russell of a valuable collection of books, the large number of works on ceramics especially filling a seriously-felt gap. There were also many illustrated works such as the Bible illustrated by Dore, Hotbein's Portraits of the Court of Henry VIII, Gough's Sepulchral Monuments, the Monographie de l'Oeuvre de B. Palissy, the expensiveness of which is so great that the library never could have purchased them.

The will of Michael McHale, late of Providence, filed for probate Wednesday, contains bequests of $200 to St. Joseph's Hospital, $200 to the Rhode Island Catholic Orphan Asylum and $200 to the Home for the Aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor. The bequests are to be paid two years after the date of the death of the testator. The rest of the estate is left to the widow, Ann McHale, during her life and then is to go to a daughter, Mary McHale. There is a clause in the will that stipulates that any contest against the will shall be accompanied by the revoking of the legacy to the contestant. The amount of $2,500 was left to other members of the family.

The Wireless Association of Rhode Island was permanently organized at a meeting held in the Young Men's Christian Association Wednesday evening. The organization comprises young men in the electrical field, and was formed for the purpose of the advancement of the science of wireless telegraphy and telephony and is growing rapidly. The members all have stations and communicate with one another. Some have "talked" by wireless for long distances. One reason for the organization is said to be that of protection against unjust legislation. They claim that government operations have made false reports of interference. Some of the amateurs claim that they have picked up the Fire Island, Long Island, Manhattan Beach and Atlantic City stations, while they also have copied despatches sent out from Wellfleet, and the government station at Brant Rock, Duxbury, Mass. Time signals are also picked up frequently, and some of the amateurs claim they have their chronometers set direct from Washington at the same time as other government stations.

Dr. Robert Wilcox, medical examiner of the Burrillville district, was thrown out of his automobile and suffered injuries to his right arm and right leg Wednesday, when the steering gear broke and the machine ran into a tree. The chauffeur, George Lassman, was also thrown out, but escaped injury. Dr. Wilcox's machine was going along when the dropping off of a bolt or nut rendered the car unmanageable. In a second or so the front of the automobile had crashed into a tree beside the road with great force. The two occupants were thrown head first over the front of the car, but neither landed on his head. The front of the radiator was crushed in by the impact, and the steering gear was badly smashed. The force of the collision was so great that a portion of the rear trunk was knocked off. Although painful for the time being, Dr. Wilcox's injuries did not prevent him from attending to his usual practice during the rest of the day.

A. J. Johnson, Jr., of Pawtucket, was elected president of the Rhode Island Pharmaceutical Association at its annual meeting Wednesday afternoon in Providence. Mr. Johnson succeeds Howard A. Pearce, who has held the office for the past two years. The law regarding the registration of pharmacists, which became operative January 1 last, was discussed and met with unanimous approval, though some of the members confessed that they could not quite understand the meaning of some of its provisions. A campaign was also started to increase the membership of the association, which has not grown rapidly in the past few years.

Representative Carson was selected as Rhode Island's representative on the Congressional committee at the joint Republican caucus in Washington Wednesday evening. None of the interesting issues came up which it was predicted might be injected into the proceedings. The only recognized insurgents" on the committee are Woods of Iowa and Hinshaw of Nebraska.

Senator Aldrich has introduced in the Senate bills granting an increase of pension to $50 a month to William R. Spink, Providence, late of Company A, First regiment, Rhode Island Volunteer cavalry, and $50 a month to George L. Rockwell, Providence, late of Company D, Twenty-Second Connecticut volunteer infantry.

A PECULIAR GIFT.

Repudiated Bonds of the State of North Carolina.

Feeling That Rhode Island is Used as a Catspaw in Bringing Suit to Recover.

The notice sent to the General Assembly by Governor Pothier Wednesday that he had received as a gift to the state 185 repudiated bonds issued by the state of North Carolina, valued with coupons attached, at $11,010 has created considerable speculation as to what the gift means. General Treasurer Walter A. Read has made a formal demand upon North Carolina to pay its bonds held by this state, and also served a similar demand upon the American Bank of the Republic, New York, the trustee of North Carolina bonds.

The receipt of these bonds as a gift and the demand for payment by Mr. Read were made mandatory by a law passed by the General Assembly of 1909, May 7, the last day of the session, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. No discussion on the part of either the governor or the general treasurer was allowed. The measure was introduced by Representative Zenas W. Bliss of Cranston, now lieutenant governor.

Governor Pothier said in an interview: "I would be very glad to see the law passed last year, so amended that I shall not be compelled to receive all gifts thrust upon this state, and so that this state shall not be obliged to prosecute every claim that may arise under such gifts."

There is a feeling that the state of Rhode Island is to be used as a catspaw to pull from the fire chestnuts to the value of $12,000,000, apparently for a big New York bond syndicate. Last June Governor Pothier received a communication from a New York attorney named Edwards, who forwarded a deed of gift of 185 bonds of $1,000 face value each, with accompanying coupons. These bonds were said to have been seized by the state of North Carolina. Governor Pothier in duly sent Executive Secretary Tobie to New York to look up the matter, arming him with the deed of gift. Mr. Tobie found the lawyer and, presenting his credentials, received the bonds, which he brought to General Treasurer Read.

The bonds proved to be part of a $4,000,000 issue put out by the state of North Carolina in 1868-69. The proceeds were used for building railroads in that state, which Mr. Read says have been paying dividends regularly. There was a political turnover in the state, the reconstructionists were ousted, and the new general assembly voted not to redeem the bonds until the people had passed upon that question. Mr. Read says this has never been done by the people and while the interest has been defaulted the obligations are still held to be good.

The repudiated issue was picked up by what is known as the bondholders' committee of New York, and of this Mr. Read says, former Speaker of the House John G. Carlisle is chairman. The holdings of this committee, if redemption can be forced, are valued, with 30 years' accrued interest, at $12,000,000.

As an individual may sue a commonwealth, a scheme was devised whereby another sovereign state could bring action against North Carolina to force a settlement. Rhode Island, it is suggested, will now be compelled to sue North Carolina.

A telegram this afternoon says it is learned from a reliable source that the law compelling the state of Rhode Island to accept the gift was rushed through the closing session of the legislature last year under the direction of a Providence law firm. This firm has an interest in securing judgment from North Carolina on the outstanding bonds and it is alleged saw no other way than to have the state of Rhode Island barred from bringing action against a state.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS' WORK.

Conferences Held With Secretary Jackson and Plans for the Winter Discussed.

The boys' work at the Young Men's Christian Association is starting up along various lines, under the direction of the new secretary, Mr. Ellis L. Jackson. Several conferences have been held with different groups and plans inaugurated for the winter. Wednesday afternoon the boys of the high school met Mr. Jackson and talked over the proposed plans, and the afternoon those of the grammar schools held a similar conference.

Today has been arranged as rally night and a special effort will be made to bring together the old and new members. Mr. Jackson and Mr. H. W. Gibson, the state boys' secretary, will meet them and talk over plans. Saturday afternoon another conference of the high school boys will be held, at which Mr. Gibson will speak on "Boys' work in Newport." Sunday afternoon Mr. Gibson will be the speaker at the Association meeting, the subject being "Chums."

At the conference Wednesday afternoon it was decided to call the original High School Club and two committees were appointed to assist the secretary in his plans. One of these is known as the program committee and consists of Arthur Speers, Paul Fletcher, Roy Griffith, and the other as the committee of arrangements, including John Hear, Alexander Macomber, Fred Bryant, Samuel Cottrell and Lloyd Robson.

NEW THEATRE BILLS.

New pictures at the Star Theatre for part of the week are "The Birth of a Colored Picture," following the story given in the Bible; "Ben Beach's Story," by the author, whose scenes are laid chiefly in the Alaskan gold fields; "Agriculture in Hungary," an educational film; "Hush Money" and "A Search." The vaudeville features Miss Jeanne Livingstone, singing comedienne, and Miss Mabel Bernier, introducing illustrated songs and duets.

Bijou the new pictures are: "Love of the Mountains," dealing with life in the mountains of western Virginia and Kentucky; "The Tramp's Dream," a story within a story; "Mesquakie's Charity," a story of Indian life, and "The Black Patriot" will be one of the attractions for the remainder of the week. The two new singers and dancers are "Coon Town" and "Rally Round the Flag, Boys" and illustrated songs are "Will You Be Satisfied, Sally?" "Dance, Girl, Dance" and "Hello, Angel Face" by Perry.

ICE MEN HARD AT IT.

Work Continued Until 9 O'clock at Night and Again in Progress—Ships Freezing Over.

The ice men are busy today. Down at Easton's pond the Arctic Company's men worked Wednesday night until 9 o'clock, and today they are at it just the same. The little thaw which came to town does not affect the ice and the dealers are happy.

The Independent Ice & Cold Storage men are housing good-looking 12-inch ice today and the farmers' teams were busy early, one loaded team being in town before 7 o'clock this morning. Owing to a slight misarrangement of the machinery this morning, the ice wagons were ahead of the hoisters, and just before 12 there were 14 on the wharf, one discharging and 13 waiting to discharge. However, the hoister kept busy and by 1 the elevator was just about waiting for ice to come along.

There is some ice in the slips along the harbor front, but it is very thin. Some of the ice from up the bay is coming down, and with soft weather and a northerly wind more may be looked for in the harbor by tomorrow.

GRIMSHAW BOUND OVER.

Man Who Robbed the Mails Tempted by Money Sent to Pay for Liquor Shipments.

A despatch from New Bedford says Edward Grimshaw of Fall River, accused of robbing the mails between Newport and Fall River, was given a hearing this morning in the office of United States Commissioner Goodspeed in New Bedford, and waiving examination will appear before the grand jury of the United States district court, which sits in Boston on the third Tuesday in March, bail being fixed in the sum of $7,000. Following the hearing Grimshaw was committed to jail, to remain until his father can furnish his bail.

Apparently Grimshaw was led astray by the fact that money was sent to Warren and Newport in payment for liquor shipped to Fall River. It was on complaint of the people who sent money in the mails for this purpose that the thief was discovered. He had apparently been working this game since last September.

JAMESTOWN.

(Regular correspondence of the News.)

The dance given last evening by St. Mark's Catholic Church proved both a social and financial success. The weather was mild and pleasant and the Gardiner House hall, in which the affair was held was filled to its capacity. The Conanicut made a special trip to accommodate those coming from Newport, about 50 couples attending from that city. McCloskey's orchestra furnished the music. A collation under the charge of Mrs. C. Dowling and a refreshment table in charge of Messrs. Heame and Dowling added to the receipts for the benefit of the church.

The Parish Aid Society held their weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. H. S. Stubbs Wednesday evening. The time was spent in progressive whist. Mrs. P. F. Brown and Mr. T. C. Watson winning the prizes. Refreshments were served.

Barge Valentine has completed discharging a cargo of coal for the Ferry Company.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Vars have left the island, to make their home in Worcester, Mass.

The trawl fishermen are making better catches of cod but as yet the fish are not running very plentiful in the bay.

They had the replacing of the prop deck, which was carried away. The carpenters cannot well begin work until the boiler makers are through, but they are getting out stock and clearing away the wreckage.

CHANGES PENDING IN ROCK ISLAND.

decay of the Rock Island company, to succeed Richard A. Jackson, resigned. These changes, it is said on high authority, involve the taking over of Daniel G. Reid's holdings of Rock Island preferred stock by prominent banking interests acting in conjunction with certain financiers. According to well-defined information Judge William H. Moore of the Rock Island Company is conducting the negotiations for the bankers, and the consummation of the deal will carry control to Judge Moore and the proposed new interests.

Various reports in connection with the resignation of Mr. Jackson were current today, but no confirmation was obtainable in official quarters. It is generally believed, however, that Mr. Jackson's retirement resulted from a rupture of his hitherto friendly relations with Mr. Reid.

Mr. Walker succeeds Mr. Reid as chairman of the board of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company, but Mr. Reid remains as a director of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company and of the Rock Island company.

Mr. Walker, who is on his way to Chicago to consult with the road's officials there, will assume all Mr. Jackson's duties, including the chairmanship of the executive committee, the general counselship of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway and membership on the finance committee.

The election of Mr. Walker to the head of the Rock Island company coincident with the suspension of two members of the Stock Exchange firm in participation in the 10,000-share market order which sent Rock Island up 30 points in a jiffy, is taken to mean that William H. Moore in the future will be in more active direction of Rock Island affairs, and that Daniel G. Reid will lighten his own burdens in the company's management.

No statement has been forthcoming from Mr. Reid in connection with the repeated report that he gave the 40,000-share Rock Island order. S. B. Chapin, head of S. B. Chapin & Co., was suspended for 60 days, and his partner, E. D. Coombs, for 30 days, for their handling of the Rock Island order. Accompanying the announcement of the suspension of Mr. Chapin and Mr. Coombs, the governors of the exchange issued a statement, which, after reciting that the offending firm had received an order for the purchase of 40,000 shares of Rock Island stock, and given it out to other brokers to execute, said:

"That said firm and members thereof should have known that execution of an order in such a manner could serve no proper or legitimate purpose; that it would cause panic, confusion and loss, and deprive the quotations of transactions on the exchange of their value as standards of the real market value of stocks. That the execution of said order in said manner by said firm constituted a misuse by them of the facilities of the exchange, and was an act detrimental to the interest and welfare of the exchange."

Judge William H. Moore of the Rock Island company said today that reports of a disagreement between himself and Daniel G. Reid were unfounded. He said that he and Mr. Reid are working together in perfect harmony. Judge Moore had nothing further to say regarding the affairs of the Rock Island company.

According to unofficial reports in Wall Street today, Mr. Jackson's sudden resignation from the presidency of the Rock Island company was due to differences with Mr. Reid over personal business arrangements. These relations are reported to have some connection with Stock Exchange transactions.

Mr. Schiff's retirement is said to have come from a desire to lighten his business activities.

MURPHY MYSTERY EXPLAINED.

Tammany Hall Leader's Letters Pieced Together and Published.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Jan. 13.—The Murphy letter mystery is explained. When letters received by the Tammany Hall leader here were published in a New York paper Murphy said they could not have been stolen from his room, because he carefully tore them up after he had read them. With the knowledge that he had so destroyed them, their subsequent publication had been a mystery to that gentleman. That mystery is now solved to some extent.

It will be remembered that at the time of the publication the authenticity of the letters was not denied, but a slight charge in the wording from what was known to be the original was commented upon. Investigation here among the employes of the hotel shows that in November last, while Murphy was in the hotel a stranger made inquiries of several of the employes as to what disposition was made of the waste paper from the guests' rooms. It is now shown that the stranger gained access to the place where this paper was dumped, and, after long and painstaking work, put the fragments of the Murphy letters together.

OCEAN LINERS STORM-SWEPT.

Kaiserin Augusta Victoria Worst Sufferer, but Others Delayed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Wireless reports received here today indicate that the Atlantic steamship lanes are being swept by severe storms, which have worked havoc on at least one ocean liner.

The worst sufferer from the wild weather, so far as reported, is Hamburg-American steamer Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, which, according to the information put into Plymouth with her port rail torn away for a distance of 50 feet by a wave which caught and threw down a score of passengers, six of whom were on deck at the time, five of which were fatally hurt. The giant comber almost threw the ship on her beam ends, but she rode out the rest of the storm without further injury. Her captain declared the compass the worst he ever encountered.

Another vessel in the track of the storm is Cunard liner Lusitania. She is overdue, but reported having passed through heavy seas and is home line. The St. Louis of the American line, due Wednesday, is two days late, and her case of the storm will not arrive before Friday night, although scheduled to sail Saturday on her return trip. No apprehension, however, is felt for the safety of the overdue vessels.

COMMITTEE REJUVENATION.

Representative Hitchcock to Press Extravagant Land Office Charges.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The rejuvenation of the expenditure committees of the House, which have come to be known as the ones with purely nominal functions, is under way. The first formal development in the movement will be a meeting of the House committee on expenditures Monday, when Representative Hitchcock of Nebraska will appear by invitation of the committee to press his charge of extravagance in the general land office. He declares that the million dollar appropriation made by Congress last year for the protection of the public domain had been drawn on to pay part of the salary of an employe now paid more salary than his superior.

While not specifically named, the official referred to is Mr. Hitchcock's hearing will bring out, is Chief Field Agent H. H. Schwartz, whose salary is $4,200, against the $3,000 salary received by his immediate superior, Assistant Commissioner Proudfit. Mr. Hitchcock's information is that $2,650 of th $4,200 is taken from the public domain protection appropriation.

BECAUSE OF IMPORT INCREASE.

Belgium May Submit Project of Tariff Relations Against France.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 13.—The government is considering the submission to parliament of a project of tariff relations against France because of the proposed increase in the French rates on imports. The plan involves particularly higher duties on importations of wines and perfumery.

The royal family, with the exception of Louise, daughter of the late King Leopold, have arranged to do everything possible to avoid law suits and scandal in connection with the distribution of Leopold's fortune.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The members of the Epworth League spent Wednesday evening at the Methodist parsonage. The meeting was one of the literary events of the month and was conducted by the third vice president, Mrs. C. E. Delamater, who is superintendent of the department. After a short business session conducted by Mrs. Ida Brown, in the absence of the president, Miss Hattie Brown, the subject, "An Evening with Dickens," was presented with the following program: Biographical sketch of the author, by Rev. C. E. Delamater; reading from "Nicholas Nickelby," "Mr. Squeers's School," Miss Bertha Morrison, reading of Dickens's poem, "The Ivy Green," Miss Mary Smith; vocal duet, "I would that my love," Mrs. Ida M. Brown and Mrs. John H. Peckham; reading from "Pickwick Papers," "Bardell vs. Pickwick," Mrs. Walter Barker; selections from "American Notes" Mrs. Delamater, and two literary guessing contests upon noted people and famous writers. A social followed.

Funeral services for Mrs. Henry C. Peckham were conducted Wednesday at the home of Mr. Peckham's mother, Mrs. Richard Peckham, on Bliss Mine road, Rev. W. F. Geisler of the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Newport, officiating and speaking briefly. A poem, "Sometime," followed by prayers, concluded the services. Many relatives and friends filled the house. The casket was covered with flowers, bearing at its head a pillow of white carnations and ferns with the word "Mother" in purple, and at the foot a large wreath of carnations and ferns. The burial was private, the body being interred in the Branon cemetery, Newport. The bearers were Enoch and Jeremiah Peckham, brothers of Mr. Peckham; Joshua Darelly, a nephew of Mrs. Peckham, and Joseph Endicott, a nephew of Mr. Peckham.

Miss Annie Chase, youngest daughter of Mr. Arthur Chase of Paradise avenue, and Mr. Chauncey Snyder, son of Mrs. William H. Sisson of the East Main road, were married in New York last week. Mr. Snyder is engaged in the automobile business and they will reside in that city. Miss Chase was bookkeeper at he grocery store of Mr. Fernando Barker on upper Broadway, Newport, for a number of years.

Miss Elsie M. Petzke entertained the Paradise Reading Club Wednesday afternoon at her home on Aquidneck avenue. Miss Petzke's paper on Travel, "Memphis to Cincinnati," which had been postponed from a previous meeting, was given and pictures and post cards of various places were shown. The attendance was not so large as usual, owing to the illness of the president, vice president and several of the members.

One hundred and fifty tons of ice, about eight inches thick, were carried into Newport from the "Hillside Farm" pond Wednesday, 18 teams being in operation. The work is being conducted by Mr. Walter Barker.

Many cases of mumps are reported among the school children and the number seems to be on the increase.

Mr. Crawford V. Hart, who has been at home for several days on sick leave, returned today to Kingston College.

No meeting of the Berkeley Men's Club was held last evening, the annual election of officers being postponed.

THE PASSING OF PINCHOT.

Great Conservation Controversy Attracts Much Attention.

The Hale-Dolliver Trouble—The Shadow of Roosevelt—Cannon Applauds Taft.

[Washington Correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. The Ballinger inquiry is now certain to fill the papers until the investigating committee makes its report and that report is adopted by Congress. It is not alone the importance of the question that is something in January that loves a fight. The love of fight runs alone. While a cockfight here draws a crowd Senator so conservative kept five in an hostilities everybody said it was a good thing, suppressed a yawn and—talked about something else. But the moment it was injected into a controversy it became a fascinating subject.

This fight spirit is in the air. The subject of conservation can no longer be mentioned than the battle lines begin to form. The row that formerly involved only two executive departments has now extended to Congress. The passage at arms between Dolliver and Hale the other day was an illustration. Dolliver rather innocently wondered why the bureau of forestry had been included in the investigation when there were no charges against it. Then upon inquiry he had found that there was a charge, the same being that the bureau had helped to foment the charges against the Interior Department. Just here he blandly dropped a lighted bomb into the Senate in the shape of the Pinchot letter. This was the now famous epistle in which the chief forester frankly told of the part subordinates in his bureau had taken in the controversy, admitted that this was a breach of official decorum for which he had reprimanded those technically at fault, and then assumed full responsibility by stating that, while the course of the men had been technically wrong, it was morally right.

Senator Hale called this a "remarkable" letter and asserted that it was in contravention of the President's rule that subordinates should only talk through their chiefs; that is, if Mr. Pinchot saw the natural resources of the nation in danger he should utter no note of warning except through the lips of Secretary Wilson. Hale also charged that the publication of the letter at that time was in effect an attempt to forestall the result of the investigation. To this Dolliver rather neatly retorted that the first letter presented to Congress had come from Secretary Ballinger and asked if this was also an attempt to forestall the verdict. The impression left by the whole passage at arms was that Hale's attitude was something of a quibble; also that if a few more letters and other evidence were reported to the full Congress there would be nothing left for the committee to investigate.

The latter to Senator Dolliver had a more important result, however, than merely stirring up the ire of Senator Hale. It also caused doings in the White House. Four cabinet officers were specially called in consultation by the President and, while none of these would talk, the rumor went humming over Washington that "Pinchot is to go." In scarcely more than 24 hours the chief forester was decapitated.

Pinchot was the last of the Roosevelt men left in high position under the Taft administration—that is, if we except Secretaries Wilson and Meyer, who were not so peculiarly identified with the Roosevelt policies. Moreover, the chief forester and former President are fast friends. That they have been in correspondence I have been assured by men who ought to know. It is quite natural that they should have been. If The other Roosevelt policy, anything it was the conservation of the nation's resources, and Pinchot was the head and indeed the creator of the conservation movement. Taking into consideration all these facts, the dismissal of Pinchot may readily be read as political crisis in connection with the reputed break of the President with the insurgents. It is significant in the interests of the company, because the attention of the country is directed to the fact that the two are intimately related, as shown by the deposition. The insurgents seemed to take up Pinchot's cause and, besides, political prophecy is hazardous.

Recently at the White House Speaker Cannon after a talk with President Taft let fall a pointer not to be that he may have meant much or little. According to the correspondent who played upon it. After giving his usual knock at the men who are trying to put him in the House the Speaker spoke of the President, and he took pleasure in saying that he was honest, he thank you" and added that the outcome of the House it would be interesting to know just what Pinchot Taft thinks of Ballinger to find out.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that eats the hair off at the root and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

VALENTINE PLANT DESTROYED.

Over Four Hundred Made Idle by Worcester's Worst Fire in Years.

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 13.—About 450 persons were thrown out of employment today as the result of the burning of the George C. Whitney Valentine Company's plant here last night and this morning. The fire, which was the worst the city has witnessed in 12 years, continued to burn from 9 o'clock last night until nearly dawn today, and until late in the forenoon several companies of firemen were kept pouring tons of water on the ruins of what was the largest plant of its kind in America, and the second greatest in the world. The company manufactured practically all the valentines used in this country.

The fire, estimated by Superintendent Rich at about $250,000, of which $100,000 was on the machinery, $100,000 on the stock and $50,000 on the building itself. The entire loss is covered by insurance.

There will not be such a dearth of valentines this year as was thought last night, it being announced today that about 50 per cent of the finished stock had been shipped. Since last June the factory had been running day and night, and the last of the valentines intended for this year were to have been shipped last night and today. Much of the stock consumed consisted of Easter cards and novelties.

It is expected that the plant will be immediately rebuilt.

"My two children, who were puny and ailing, rapidly gained flesh and strength when I began to give them Vinol. I proved that Vinol is a splendid tonic for delicate children."—Mrs. C. ALLEN, New Bedford, Mass.

At the time of his retirement the summer of 1898, he was surgeon of the navy yard at Mare Island, Cal.

GOVERNMENT STANDS SPONSOR.

Army Signal Corps to Have Wireless Telephone Line in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Within a month the first wireless telephone "line" to enter the Capital of the United States will be in operation. As was the case with the first telegraph line to the Capital, the government will stand sponsor for the novelty.

The wireless telephone "line" is now being constructed by the signal corps of the army. One terminus will be in the quarters of the corps on Pennsylvania avenue, and the other will be at the bureau of standards, slightly over three miles away. The corps has taken up the subject of wireless telephone with a view to equipping the army with the most modern means of communication in time of war. Every device which has been placed on the market has been purchased by General Allen, chief signal officer. It is for the purpose of testing these, and possibly for the development of a new apparatus, that the experiments will be made.

UPHOLDS PINCHOT POLICY.

Graves Says Whole Country Favors Conserving Public Resources.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 13.—That the sentiment of the whole country is in favor of the conservation of public resources was the declaration of Professor Henry S. Graves of Yale, newly appointed national forester, in an interview today. He further expressed himself in favor of the policy pursued by Mr. Pinchot as chief of the forestry service.

Professor Graves is director of the Yale forest school and Pinchot is professor of forestry. He returned from his Washington visit early today, and will assume his new position in February.

So far as he knows, there will be no reorganization of the forestry service, said Professor Graves. If any changes are to be made they will probably be of such a minor character as not to be really essential. He believes and the sentiment at Washington is, that the work should go on as it did before his appointment, and that the force which Mr. Pinchot organized is doing its work well. The only policy, he said, is the conservation of the public resources, and this is being done. Both the President and the Secretary of Agriculture are in earnest in their desire that the work should go on as it had begun.

FOREST SUPERVISORS PLEASED.

Give Vigorous Vent to Enthusiasm Because of Graves's Appointment.

OGDEN, Utah, Jan. 13.—Two hundred forest supervisors of the Fourth district, who are holding their annual convention here, interrupted proceedings for five minutes yesterday to take up a demonstration following the announcement of the appointment of Henry S. Graves of the Yale forest school to succeed Gifford Pinchot, and of Albert F. Potter to be associate forester. The supervisors, most of whom are from the Yale school, gave vigorous vent to their enthusiasm and general gratification with the President's appointments.

SCHEME TO SECURE LAND.

Colorado Livestock Delegates Bitterly Oppose Pinchot Resolution.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 13.—The resolution presented to the National Livestock Association endorsing the Pinchot administration of the forest service, and urging federal control of range lands met with bitter opposition from the Colorado delegates today. They declare they see in the resolution an attempt by the large cattle companies to secure land at a merely nominal figure, thus replacing range land owned by them, but now grown too valuable for grazing purposes.

fireman was injured, though not seriously, by falling from a ladder.

The fire gained headway so rapidly, from the time it was first discovered, at 5:10 a. m. that the first alarm was immediately followed by a second, a third and a fourth, calling out all the apparatus in the city proper. Watchman Peter Johnson, who rang in the alarm, believes that the blaze started in the gymnasium in the basement, and within a few minutes the flames had burst through the four floors. Two other men were in the building at the time, but were notified by Johnson and succeeded in making their escape.

The firemen worked under considerable difficulty, with the water from more than 100 streams freezing on the rungs of the ladders. Foreman Joseph Wood, in trying to control a runaway nozzle, fell from a ladder from the second floor, receiving a dislocated elbow and contusions about the body.

Notre Dame Academy, on Berkeley and Providence streets, about 30 feet southeast of the burning building, was threatened several times, and it was in that corner of the building that the fire burned the fiercest. The 57 sisters who were asleep in the academy were sent to the opposite end of the building from the fire, and the windows facing the burning structure were used to direct streams from by the firemen.

The building, at the time it was built, in 1882, was the finest of its kind in America, and had always been one of the most artistic structures of the association in the country. It was equipped with a large gymnasium, a library, a very valuable law library and a chemical laboratory, which was better than those in most of the colleges of the United States, and ranked next to the laboratories at Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in New England.

The building was a five-story brick structure, about 125 feet long, fronting on the southern side of Boylston street, and run back on the western side of Berkeley street for about 100 feet. On the street floor was the store of Geo. Ellis & Co., groceries, and the offices of the American Express Company and the Armstrong Transfer Company, numbered from 452 to 458 Boylston street. The second floor was used by the association as an office, employment bureau, library, pool room and music room. On the next floor was the association hall and law library, which was valued at several thousand dollars, while on the fourth floor were the schoolrooms, and on the fifth floor the laboratory.

The burning of the old building today came just when the association was completing plans for the erection of a new home. Several weeks ago the Boston organization started a campaign to raise $500,000 for a new building, and succeeded in securing several thousand dollars more than this figure in the allotted period of two weeks. The association has taken up temporary quarters at 631 Boylston street.

A feature of the fire was the bursting of several large hose and of one of the hydrants.

NO LESSENING OF OPPOSITION.

Japan and Russia Said to Agree on Knox Manchurian Plan.

TOKIO, Jan. 13.—There is reason to believe that Japan and Russia have reached a complete agreement on the subject of the neutralization of the Manchurian railways proposed by the United States.

The newspapers here generally admit the benevolent intentions of Secretary Knox but there is no evidence of a lessening of the opposition to his plan on the ground of sentiment and impracticability.

ATTITUDE NOT YET PUBLIC.

Report Concerning China and Manchurian Question Unauthorized.

PEKIN, Jan. 13.—The story which originated in Shanghai yesterday and found its way into a portion of the American press, to the effect that China had advised Russia and Japan that it would not agree to Secretary Knox's proposal for the neutralization of the railways of Manchuria, is declared here to be absolutely without basis in fact. China has not as yet made public her attitude.

R., last night adopted resolutions petitioning the President of the United States that a statue of Benedict Arnold, robed in British uniform, be placed in the hall of fame at Washington, "that future generations may revere his name and enshrine in their hearts God's noble traits of his patriotism and love of country."

POLICE AT WORK ON CASE.

New York Coasters' Shooting May Be Result of a Syrian Plot.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—A vengeful Syrian plot, which partially miscarried, may be the explanation of the act of a Syrian madman who late yesterday wantonly shot two six-year-old boy coasters on Washington Heights, killing one of them and fatally wounding the other.

The police are trying to run down the "dagger cloth man" described by the panic-stricken boys, among whom the murderous stranger appeared, but, while still working on the theory that the act was a lunatic or homicidal pervert, the police are giving attention to the alternative theory that Robert Lemas, the dead boy, and Arthur Shibley, who was fatally shot, were the victims of a plot by enemies of the Shibley family. On this theory young Lemas is supposed to have been mistaken for Nassib Shibley, an adopted son of Arthur Shibley, Sr.

Nassib Shibley's father killed himself in a fit of domestic difference. He was an attorney and had persistently fought certain Syrian secret societies. His brother Arthur adopted his son, who was not in the crowd of boys among whom the assassin appeared yesterday. It is assumed, however, that the stranger, believing young Lemas to be the son of the dead attorney, killed the boy and then shot his intended victim's foster-brother.

POLICE AND DETECTIVES TALK.

Enough White Slave Evidence in Hand for Numerous Indictments.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Police officials of the famous old "red light" district came today to the aid of the white slave investigation. Three of them—Captains Day and Morris and Inspector Hogan—are believed to have supplied the strongest evidence yet against the syndicate traffic in women which the grand jury, headed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is trying to uncover.

The jury was called to appear before it today a number of federal detectives, said to have become acquainted at first hand during investigations for the government with conditions in the reputed local slave mart. It was said at District Attorney Whitman's office that there was enough evidence in hand for numerous indictments of individuals. The investigators, however, are believed to be holding in reserve it is said, prosecution until a broader case can be delivered at "higher up" persons in the "syndicate of sin" alleged to have its headquarters here.

Prospective witnesses for the grand jury were rounded up today, when an agent for the Society for the Prevention of Crime called a Tenderloin resort and made nine women prisoners. The raid was directed by Superintendent McClintock of the society, who has been actively engaged in securing evidence for the grand jury, and it was stated that callers of the prisoners would probably be called to testify before the investigators.

ICE GORGE AT ST. LOUIS.

Ferryboat at Venice Sunk, and Wharf Boat Torn from Moorings.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 13.—The ice gorge, which broke up in the Missouri river at Hermann last night reached St. Louis this morning. In one hour the river here rose more than a foot, an the gauge stood at 27 feet. The danger stage of 30 feet may be reached within 24 hours if the ice below St. Louis does not break.

The ferry boat at Venice, Ill., was sunk by ice. The wharf boat was torn from the moorings and floated down the river.

10—The noted changes shown by the opening prices of stocks gave an appearance of hesitation to the tone of the market. The principal speculative issues, however, showed sharp gains. Union Pacific, Reading and Colorado Fuel rose 1, and Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio and Utah Copper large fractions. Wheeling & Erie first preferred and American Ice declined ½. The dealings showed considerable animation.

11—The market moved in a very uneven fashion, but few points of weakness were shown. Fluctuations were wide in a number of cases, causing Rock Island to dip a point under yesterday's closing and wiping out Union Pacific's gain. The tone was maintained at the end of the hour.

Noon—Money on call, easier, at 4½ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4½@5 per cent. Heavy selling of orders appeared following the announcement of the board of governors' action on the Rock Island episode. Huge blocks of United States Steel were traded in. Prices were carried below last night throughout the list. Industrial stocks being the chief sufferers. Pacific Mail and American Car fell 2¾, Rock Island 1⅝, Amalgamated Copper 1⅜ and St. Paul, Chicago & Great Western and United States Steel 1. Shorts bought heavily to cover, and caused some substantial rallies. Business subsided to small proportions at the recovery. Bonds were irregular.

CHANGES IN THE SERVICE.

With the Coming of Modern Ships, the Work of the Sailor is Largely Out of Date.

The work of the sailor in the navy would seem to be largely a thing of the past. Of course with the modern ships there is little of it to be done, and yet now and then, when there is something, a call is sent out for the old fogies. Recently the topmasts of the Constellation, Cumberland and Boxer were housed for the winter, an operation which nowadays would be sent down and topmasts housed in the face of a storm, there being no wireless warning of its approach.

Even the chief petty officers seem to be deficient in the nomenclature of the cable and bowline, while at the Training Station for the past few years the school of the soldier is all essential. Years ago, when the Station was started, no boy could be graduated to a seagoing ship until he was thoroughly skilled in the tying of the various knots and making of splices, but now often on shipboard will be found a gang of men who are wholly ignorant of the handling of lines, so that the boatswain's mate in charge must himself make them fast if the ship receives a barge alongside or goes to dock.

There has recently been a change at the Training Station, in which the coal passers and signal divisions have been discontinued and the two branches consolidated in one. The change is for purposes of administration, but of course the instruction is separate.

TO STRAIGHTEN A TANGLE.

Explanation of Newport County Appointments to State Board of Charities and Corrections.

Wednesday's appointments by Governor Pothier, of members of the board of State Charities and Corrections, were to straighten out a tangle in the representation on that board from Newport county. There are nine members of the board—three from Providence county, one from each of the other counties, and two at large. Last year John J. Watson of Newport county resigned, and Frabrello G. Jillson of Providence was appointed to fill his unexpired term. George E. Lawton was a member of the board at large and Mr. Jillson's appointment left Newport county without a representative. Mr. Lawton's term and Mr. Jillson's expired simultaneously today, and Mr. Lawton was made the representative from Newport county, and Mr. Jillson the representative at large.

Thomas V. Sisson, who was Wednesday appointed a member of the Tiverton police commission for the term ending January 13, 1913, was the candidate having the support of the senator and representative from that town. He will succeed Richard Boardman, who was appointed three years ago by Governor Higgins.

Mr. M. A. McCormick's appointment as member of the board of control of the State Home and School, for three years, was to succeed himself.

A PLAY OF LIFE AMONG THE INDIANS.

Go-Won-Go-Mohawk, the Indian actress who has gained favor in "Wep-tee-tee-mah," aided by a capable company gives the play in the fullness of its dramatic intensity and wins golden opinions for the manner in which she interprets the leading role. The costuming and scenery is in keeping with the other features of the performance and the Indian parts always receive a large share of attention. Miss Mohawk wrote the play herself and the scenes are transported from real life among the Indians. She was raised on a reservation, where she lived the life almost of the Oneida Indian, and she has done well in turning this experience to good account in her play.

The leading incidents are sufficiently thrilling to kindle the enthusiasm of the spectators, while the admixture of farcical comedy, mingled with pleasing and dancing, are the cause of much merriment. Miss Mohawk has a fine presence and she acts vigorously in her part. Two Indian ponies display great intelligence, showing the great care taken by their mistress in training them.

FRANK KEENAN'S LEADING WOMAN.

When Henry B. Harris began to make preparations for the production of "The Heights," William Anthony McGuire's new play, in which Frank Keenan is starring, considerable difficulty was experienced in securing Mr. Keenan's leading woman. She had required an actress having the poise and naturalness of a young society girl together with all the emotional ability and temperament qualities of a Margaret Anglin or a Mrs. Fiske. Once Mr. Keenan described the requirements of the leading woman, day after day at the Hudson Theatre, New York, some of the best known actresses in this country were given an opportunity to read the part, and it was not until more than a dozen had endeavored to demonstrate their fitness to play the part that a selection was made. Wilda Kershaw, was the leading woman. Miss Kershaw began her stage career in the West with a stock company, playing long before the climax of her part, being that of Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet." In her first season, she was cast in such important parts as Ophelia in "Hamlet," Portia in "The Merchant of Venice," Desdemona in "Othello" and Lady Teazle in "The School for Scandal."

The four big chiefs made up the board of great chiefs, for the raising. Chief Phillips acting as great sachem, Chief Roberts as great prophet, Chief Carpenter as great sannup and Chief Brown as great guard of the wigwam. The chiefs raised to their new stumps were:

The local chiefs attended to the business before them and then they too went to the small wigwam, where the squaws who have been attending to the culinary work of provisioning during the past few hours had clam chowder, coffee and pies ready and good weeds for smoking.

The semi-annual report of the tribe shows that it has practically $10,000 in the wampum belt, in addition to which the Association owns property on Thames Street.

DEATH OF MRS. WILLIAMS AND HER NEPHEW.

The death of Mrs. Rosylvina Williams, who was buried Wednesday, occurred under distressing circumstances. Her husband, George Williams, was buried about two months ago, and she went to her daughter, Mrs. Anthony White of New York, to spend Christmas. She was taken ill and Saturday night, when a fire was discovered in the house, the old lady was taken across the street wrapped in blankets. After the fire, which left the lower part of the house nearly burned out, Mrs. Williams was taken back again. Her nephew, Charlie Williams, a boy of 11, went to bed at Conrad A. M. Stine the night after Mr. White went to call him to breakfast and found him dead. It is supposed that the firemen lighted the gas in his room, and the window being open it was blown out. Mrs. Williams heard him call out, "Charlie is dead," and though she was thought to be unconscious at the time repeated it over and over until she died. The boy Charlie was well known in this city and was a favorite with all. Inside of four months the family have lost father, mother, sister and a nephew. Mrs. Williams left six children—George E. Williams, Benjamin Williams, Charles Williams, Mrs. William Hilton, Anderson and Mrs. Anthony White, besides a number of grandchildren.

ONLY BY GREAT PLAY.

Reserves Able to Keep the Lead and Win from the Catskills.

Fine Exhibition of Real Basket Ball—High School Inter-Class Schedule.

The promise that the Catskill team of the Hudson River League would give spectators a fine exhibition of basket ball play was fulfilled by the game at the armory Wednesday evening. Reserves won, 27 to 20, but it was only by great playing that they were able to hold the lead after securing it. The last period ought to have given the spectators more than their money's worth, for every one seemed to be on the jump as well as the players. It was not a case of holding and wrestling and breaking away, but of fast, clean basket ball, with fine passing, good dribbling, plenty of shooting, and incidentally some hard luck on both sides when the ball refused to go inside for the count.

The visitors were bothered by the fact that they could not shoot from a dribble, as they do in the league, and some fine chances to score were lost to them in that way. They were fast on the floor and strong, and played a clean game. There was only one trouble—it really looked in the second period as though they were going to take that game. They intended to do so if they could, and worked hard to the end. At no time was there a let-up; it was a steady plugging for the end, all the time.

The attendance was good but not so large as it might have been. Lovers of the game should know that the Hudson River League teams play basket ball, and play it well.

The visitors were an athletic-looking set and were out on the floor early, but of course that did not mean that the game started promptly. It was nearly ten minutes after 8 when play began. The spectators forgot all about the delay after the game began, for it became evident at the start that it was to be the fastest kind of basketball. Fifteen seconds after the whistle Harvey had dropped one in for the first count. 41 seconds later Hallenback scored for the visitors, and a minute and a half after Derr counted for the visitors, who led 4 points to 2. Three fouls called on Newport gave another point and the score was 5-2 for the visitors.

The play was fast and every one was in it, the ball traveling from end to end and both sides shooting whenever the chance offered. The visitors made almost as many shots as the Reserves at this period and the game had gone nine minutes before the Reserves counted again. Then things happened fast. McMahon scoring twice inside of ten seconds and Harvey and Roche also counting, so that within two minutes and 20 seconds the Reserves had added 5 points to their score and had a good lead. The first period ended without further scoring, the Reserves leading, 10 to 5.

In the second period Harvey scored after 15 seconds of play, and then took a rest. His left eye was struck by the head of one of the visitors as both ducked, and Harvey had a cut over it which dropped blood in a trail over the floor. Time was taken out while repairs were made, and he came back with a piece of court plaster over the cut and was warmly welcomed. He said he could get work his eye and apparently the cut did affect his play, for the visitors gained in this period. McMahon and Shea scored and it was 18 to 7. Then the visitors scored twice, and Harvey made one. The visitors counted three times, and Dunn was the period ended the score was 18-15 for the Reserves.

The visitors started the scoring in the last period, then Dunn counted, then the visitors scored and the record was 20-19 in favor of the Reserves, with every one arriving at top speed and successive shots being made at opposite baskets. It was fast work and the spectators got into the game as they had not before this season. They shouted encouragement to the home team, though at the same time having nothing but admiration for the visitors, who had been several times roundly applauded for their fine work. A point of fouls gave Newport a lead of 21 to 19. Then Dunn and Roche scored, the visitors made one on fouls, and the last score of the game went to Harvey, who had started the count.

In the last half of this period the Reserves clearly outplayed the visitors, having 13 shots to their four, but to the spectators it seemed that the play was about as even and as fast as it could be. The sides and score:

Reserves		Catskill
Harvey, l. f.		r. b., Grove
Roche, r. f.		l. b., Cole
McMahon, c.		c. Mathews
Shea, l. b.		r. f., Derr

Score—Reserves 27; Catskill 20. Baskets 5, Roche 2, McMahon 5, Shea 1, Dunn 2; Hallenback 2, Derr 3, Mathews 2, Grove 2. Points from fouls—Reserves 1; visitors 2. Fouls called—On Reserves 6; on visitors 2. Missed field trips—Reserves 101; visitors 51. Referee—Waters.

THE HECKSCHER ESTATE.

Large Amount Transferred to the Wife Before Death, and Two Daughters Cut Off.

In the appraisal of the estate of John G. Heckscher, filed in the surrogate's court in New York, it was shown that Mr. Heckscher left no real estate and that his personal estate at the date of his death, July 4, 1909, was worth $1,374,37. Prior to his death and during a period covering some years, however, he transferred to his wife or gave her securities worth $201,703.50.

Mr. Heckscher cut off his two daughters by his first wife, Mary Travers Heckscher—Emmeline D. Winthrop, wife of Mr. Egerton L. Winthrop, Jr., president of the board of education, and Georgiana L. McClellan, wife of Mr. George B. McClellan, formerly mayor—with bequests of $100 each.

Mr. Heckscher left a will and two codicils, the will being dated December 20, 1905, and the codicils June 5, 1906, and June 13, 1907.

By his will he left his daughters Emmeline and Georgiana $100 each. To his brother, Charles A. Heckscher, he willed a miniature of his mother, two prize shooting cups, and all his guns, fishing rods, reels and all other shooting, fishing and sporting implements, and 75 shares in the Coney Island Jockey Club and his share in the South Side Sportsman's Club.

To the New York Public Library, Astor, Lenox and Tilden Foundation were left his entire library, including his books on angling. Mrs. Heckscher received all her husband's household furniture, wearing apparel and household effects and a specific legacy of $500,000. She also received all his estate in the Valley Farms Company, of Yonkers, and the income of a trust fund of $100,000.

St. Rose's Free Home for Incurable Cancer received $5,000 by the will. Captain William H. Emory, of the United States navy, received $5,000 in token of the testator's love and esteem. His three nephews and his two nieces, Mrs. Rensselaer and Mrs. Phelps, receive $10,000 each, and his niece Georgiana $25,000.

By the first codicil Mr. Heckscher revoked the bequest of his library and directed its sale the proceeds to be divided into three equal parts, of which his brother was to have two and his wife one.

The second codicil revoked the legacy of $25,000 to his niece Georgiana and instead left her $10,000, and also revoked the appointment of the executors named in the will and substituted instead the United States Trust Company.

THE BATTLESHIP FLEET AT GUANTANAMO.

News of the arrival Wednesday of the battleship fleet at Guantanamo, Cuba, was received at the Navy Department in a wireless despatch. It will remain in the warmer waters of Cuba until May, engaging in the annual winter manoeuvres. The fleet which left New York January 6, includes the Connecticut, Vermont, Kansas, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Missouri, Wisconsin, Idaho, Mississippi, Georgia and Nebraska. The Louisiana and Virginia, now at the Norfolk Navy Yard, will join the fleet later.

After being out at sea only one day on her way from San Francisco to Honolulu, to join the fleet in the Orient, cruiser New Orleans was compelled to turn back to San Francisco on account of leaky boiler tubes.

"THE GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI" COMING.

Mr. C. W. McClintock, representing William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer, was in the city today, arranging for the presentation at the Opera House, Thursday evening, January 20, of the successful comedy, "The Gentleman from Mississippi." The company, one of the four playing the piece, has recently come from a successful tour of the Pacific coast and is now in New England. The leading parts, of the gentleman from Mississippi and his sweetheart, are played by James Lackaye and Osborn Searle. The company is well fitted and the engagement in Worcester is an aggregate business of $8,000.

THE POOR FINAL LOSERS.

[Boston Transcript]

The doctrine of the "decadence of Lowell," sought by the political opponents, finds little response in the minds of Americans of any social class. As a people we have learned ourselves to distrust the exclusive concentration of power in the few and abstract Europe people and hustling age. We believe America is an exception to all rules in the general decline from the theory that taxes are really paid by the users of houses and the consumers of goods and wares, and that the poorer people and their children are the ones primarily but silently to suffer for most socially from waste and misrule.

up to feel out the air currents for a high flight. At the height of 100 feet he circled twice round the course and came down.

Carrying cattlemarines, actors, women and aeronauts-three balloons—the New York, Peoria and Dick Ferris—ascended from Huntington Park within 15 minutes of each other, and the passengers had plenty of excitement.

The Peoria dodged a flagstaff on a building. An anchor was thrown out and the balloon was brought to earth.

In the New York were Clifford B. Harmon, Nat Goodwin, Bud Weadthorpe, Mme. Pantheon, Baron Roberde Pomerdorff, Mme. de Pomerdorff and Geforge Harrison. In the Dick Ferriss now balloon, were A. G. Willard, aeronaut; George Dussler, Captain H. C. Stotterbeck, California National Guard; P. H. Greene and C. P. Edholm.

The New York and the Dick Ferris, after ascending to a considerable height, came to earth within incident Mr. Peoria, which at a great height sailed away to the northwest, crossed the beach near Santa Monica and passed out over the ocean, traveling in an opposite direction to the lower currents. After going about three miles out, follow d by ships, the balloon dropped so close to the water that her drag rope trailed in the sea. Then, catching the reverse current from the northwest, the Peoria sailed back over the land.

FILED IN SUPREME COURT.

New Brunswick Papers Involve $1,000,000 and Future of Company.

FREDERICKTON, New Brunswick, Jan. 13.—Papers in a case involving property valued at $1,000,000 and the future of the Alexander Gibson Railway & Manufacturing Company of Marysville have been filed in the supreme court of New Brunswick. The Royal Trust Company, a branch of the Bank of Montreal, brought suit against the Gibson company for the foreclosure of a mortgage for $140,000 and interest since November 18, 1899, at 6 per cent. The Gibson company gave the mortgage in guarantee of bonds which are largely held by the bank of Montreal.

The Gibson company formerly owned the Marysville cotton mills, the Canada Eastern railroad, numerous lumber mills and thousands of acres of timberland.

FALL OF ANOTHER SLATER.

Another slater, Joseph Gingrich of Roxbury, fell from the roof of the new Nurses' Home late Wednesday afternoon, and though going the whole distance to the ground the most serious injuries he suffered were sprains of the back and ankle. He is reported at the hospital today as quite comfortable. Thompson, the slater who fell a week ago and suffered broken ribs, is also doing well. That the slater's calling is dangerous is shown by these two accidents, and the recent fatal one at the Training Station.
